

NCFE CACHE Certificate in Supporting Teaching and Learning in Schools Level 2

In a nutshell

Classroom support in schools is vital in helping children reach their full potential – and if working in a support role appeals to you, this course will give you the knowledge you need.

You'll be expected to gain practical experience in working in roles that support pupils' learning in primary, secondary or ALN schools, as well as colleges for at least one day per week, as an employee or volunteer.

If you are studying part time then it's important you arrange your placement before enrolling. If you are studying full time then we will arrange your placements for you.

This course is for...

...anyone who wants to work with children or young adults in a classroom situation

...anyone who wants to be a classroom assistant or learning and support assistant

COURSE INFORMATION LEAFLET

Course content

The course recognises the essential support work carried out in schools and colleges, and is designed to help progression and transfer across the children's workforce within schools and colleges. You will complete 11 units throughout the year, some will be assessed in your school/college placement and most units you will produce written assignments.

It develops knowledge that will be valuable for voluntary and paid workers, through studying a range of units relating to working with children in a classroom situation. Each unit is assessed separately through a range of assessment methods.

Following on from this course, you could progress to the CACHE Level 3 in Supporting Teaching and Learning in Schools.

Entry Requirements

There are no formal entry requirements, but CACHE recommends that to cope with the demands of the qualification you should have 5 GCSEs at grade C or equivalent or Level 1 Care Vocational Qualification.

Additional information

All learners will have to undertake a satisfactory DBS check.
